

Commission launches campaign to tackle undeclared work

On 2nd March, the Commission launched the first European campaign for declared work. It will work hand in hand with the European Platform tackling undeclared work and the European Labour Authority. The initiative intends to raise awareness amongst workers, companies and policymakers that undeclared work does not pay off. It deprives workers of social protection, it distorts competition between businesses, and it leads to huge gaps in public finances.

https://ec.europa.eu/commission/presscorner/detail/en/IP_20_355

<https://twitter.com/hashtag/EU4FairWork>

